

NOTE

A Replacement Name for Lepidostoma weaveri Bueno, Santiago, and Barba
(Trichoptera: Lepidostomatidae)

In a recent paper on Trichoptera collected in Mexico and Panama (Bueno-Soria et al. 2004:481), we described the new species Lepidostoma weaveri, unfortunately overlooking the fact that Harris (1986:36) earlier had used weaveri for a species of Lepidostoma from Alabama. Lepidostoma weaveri Bueno, Santiago, and Barba, 2004, is thus a junior primary homonym and must be renamed. We here propose Lepidostoma textor Bueno, Santiago, and Barba, new name, for Lepidostoma weaveri Bueno, Santiago, and Barba, 2004. The specific epithet is Latin for weaver. It is a noun in apposition in honor of John Weaver.

LITERATURE CITED

- Bueno-Soria, J., S. Santiago-Fragoso, and R. Barba-Alvarez. 2004. More new Trichoptera from Mexico and Panama. Transactions of the American Entomological Society 130: 479–486.
- Harris, S. C. 1986. New species of caddisflies (Trichoptera) from Alabama. Proceedings of the Entomological Society of Washington 88: 30–41.

Joaquin Bueno-Soria, Silvia Santiago-Fragoso, and R. Barba-Alvarez, Instituto de Biología, UNAM, Ciudad Universitaria, Mexico, D.F. 04510, Mexico (e-mail: bueno@servidor.unam.mx)